

It's all nonsense!

Harrow Way School, visiting from Andover, and Mid Powys Youth Theatre joined forces for the first of what is to become an annual youth drama festival held at The Living Willow Theatre.

The two teams of students performed a short, snappy show of dramatised 'nonsense' from Hilaire Belloc, Lewis Carroll and Edward Lear to celebrate their achievements in drama and mark the end of the school term. The annual event is intended to provide a fabulous networking and link-up opportunity for schools and colleges, as well as a showcase for the hard work and talent that exists in drama departments across the UK.

Although a little breezy, the rain held off for a wonderful outdoor performance, while the students also enjoyed camping in the Penlanole orchard and even a spot of sheep-shearing!
